DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

- 1) The terminal disclaimer and amendment filed January 8, 2003 are acknowledged.
- 2) Applicant's arguments, filed January 8, 2003, with respect to the rejections of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 102 as being anticipated by Kanevsky et al. or King et al. and under 103 as being unpatentable over Kara et al. in view of EP 1063602 have been fully considered and are persuasive.

However, in response to the applicant's argument that Smith et al. does not disclose or anticipate the step of notifying by the recipient to the data center of the manner in which the recipient wants some or all of their mail delivered, the examiner invites the applicant's attention to the paragraphs [0022]-[0023]. Smith et al. discloses that the user or recipient can select address (for business trip, it could be a hotel) and how many mail pieces the recipient may want to receive first or hold them at the post office (i.e. they could opt for receiving all or some of these mail pieces).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 3) The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 4) Claims 1-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In Claim 1, line 4, the recitation of "the sender" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5) Claims 1-3, 11-13, 17-19, 21, 25 and 28-35, as far as they are definite, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Smith et al. (US 2002/0095306 A1 or US 2002/0042808 A1).

W.R.T. Claim 1:

Smith et al. discloses a method that enables a recipient to inform a carrier to deliver a mail in a plurality of manners, comprising the steps of:

depositing with the carrier mail containing the recipient's name and physical address and a sender's name and address (see Figs. and paragraphs [0022-0023]);

capturing the name and address of the recipient and the sender (see Figs. 5-8 for example and the descriptions thereof);

translating the name and address of the recipient into an e-mail address (see paragraph [0015] with respect to e-mail service);

notifying the recipient of the availability of the mail (see paragraphs [0017-0023]); notifying the carrier of the manner in which the recipient wants the mail delivered (paragraphs [0022-0023]) and delivering by the carrier mail to the recipient.

W.R.T. Claim 2: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to deliver the mail to a specified name and address (paragraphs 0015-0025);

W.R.T. Claim 3: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to return the mail to the sender (see Id.);

W.R.T. Claim 11: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to deliver the mail to the recipient at a different address;

W.R.T. Claims 12-13: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to deliver the mail to the recipient by a slower or faster delivery than normal one (see paragraphs 0015-0023);

W.R.T. Claims 17-18: Smith et al. discloses the method including: informing the sender of the delivery of the mail; and wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to hold the mail (see Id.);

W.R.T. Claim 19: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies the carrier to destroy (or trash in Smith et al.) the mail (paragraph 0022);

W.R.T. Claim 21: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient is notified via e-mail;

W.R.T. Claim 25: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the carrier is notified via e-mail;

W.R.T. Claim 28: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the recipient notifies a data center as to notify the carrier;

W.R.T. Claims 29-33: Smith et al. must include the mail inherently containing a stamp, a postal indicia, permit and symbology; and W.R.T. Claims 34-35: Smith et al. discloses the method wherein the graphic is captured and translated and stored (see paragraph 0015, view "image").

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6) Claims 4-10, 14-16, 20 and 22-24 and 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith et al..

Smith et al. discloses the method as cited above and further discloses the method including:

informing the carrier to e-mail the contents of the mail piece to the recipient;

mailing by e-mail the contents of mail piece;

informing the carrier to e-mail the contents of the mail piece to one or more specified e-mail addresses; and mailing by e-mail to the specified e-mail address (paragraphs 0015-0023, 0033).

However, Smith et al. does not specifically disclose the method including the limitations in Claims 4, 7-10, 14-16, 20, 22-24 and 26-27 (opening the mail, sending the information contents to PDA, using facsimile, how to charge, recycling the mail, telephoning, and notifying via television).

At the time the invention was made, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to a person of ordinary skill in the art to arrange to open the mail, sending the information contents to PDA, notify via a facsimile, telephone or television, charge the recipient for the service and recycle the mail because Applicant has not disclosed that the above claimed limitations provides an advantage, is used for a particular purpose, or solves a stated problem. One of ordinary skill in the art, furthermore, would have expected Applicant's invention to perform equally well with the method of Smith et al. because one of ordinary skill in the art may adopt other notification manners and incorporate them into the existing notification system of Smith et al...

Therefore, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the invention of Smith et al. to obtain the invention as specified in claims 4, 7-10, 14-16, 20, 22-24 and 26-27.
